

Kathy Killoh

Kathy has been working in the publishing industry for 18 years and has worked with Athabasca University Press since its inception in 2007. She has worked in various roles within the press, including an extended period as interim director. Kathy has been on the board of the Book Publishers Association of Alberta in the past and is pleased to be re-joining the executive.